LEGION OF HONOR

Founded in 1802 by Napoleon and organized two years later. The distinction was conferred for meritorious conduct in civil or military life. Originally the order composed 3,665 chevaliers, 450 officers, 300 commanders, 105 grand officers, and a grand master (Napoleon held this). At their institution, the members were obliged "to pledge their support to the defense of the State and of the liberties achieved by the Revolution."

In 1872, the parent institution reorganized, the order being organized into 5 classes - Cavalry, officers, non-commissioned, grand officers, and grand crosses. Subordinate grades ranging from 250 francs to 3,000 francs for grand cross. The non-commissioned 43,851 in 1892. The grand 1897 total the max. # of additional crosses to be carried at 14,320. A few crossed the 14th cross edged with gold.
